Shaping the future together!

Complex questions demand thorough scientific responses

You can make a difference:
to social conditions, political decisions and the way business works. Join us in confronting the great challenges of our time, including climate change and the switch to renewable energies. Help to maintain the integrity of our natural resources.

Over the last 30 years the Öko-Institut has been committed to creating a sustainable society.

Creative, scientific, future-oriented: Öko-Institut

We are working on a vision: to create sustainable ways of living, both around the world and right in your own home. We point out the consequences of society's actions early on and develop practical solutions for tackling problems. Our work prompts a fundamental transformation in thinking among business people and politicians.

More than 100 members of staff
in Freiburg, Darmstadt and Berlin.

We advise politicians, business people and civil society. Our 100 and more projects every year highlight ways of meeting the challenges of our time: the impacts of globalization and rapid social change.

Öko-Institut: One of Europe's leading independent research and consultancy institutes.

Working for change

Research leading to sound action

Our projects provide practitioners with scientific results and recommendations on the following issues:

- Energy and climate
- Nuclear technology and facility safety
- Sustainable consumption, mobility and resources
- Corporate sustainability
- Agriculture and biodiversity
- Law, politics and governance
- Emission control and radiation protection
- Chemicals management and technology assessment

Join in!

We finance our work primarily through projects commissioned by public and private clients, yet we ourselves initiate projects of strategic and social importance as well. And that's where we need your help. Become a member!

As a member you are supporting the financial independence of critical science.

How you benefit as a member

Becoming a member gives you the certainty that you are investing in projects for a better future. And not only that: you yourself can benefit from the Öko-Institut's expertise.

As a member ...

- ... you receive our quarterly magazine eco@work for free.
- ... you can participate at reduced rates in our events.
- ... we will inform you about current issues, events and new studies.
- ... we are happy to give you a tour of our plus-energy office building in Freiburg, the Solar Ship.

A token of our appreciation

You can choose: between the annual membership fee of € 80 (concessionary rate € 35) and lifetime membership for a one-off fee of € 1,000. Lifetime membership saves you the annual administrative effort. A registration form is also available on the Internet:

Yes, I want to become a member and invest in independent and critical research for a better future.

Your involvement is doubly rewarded!

We provide each new member with a socket mounted electricity meter. This helps you find out quickly and easily which electric devices in your household are using up too much electricity. By putting energy-efficient devices to optimum use, an average household can save up to 400 kilowatt hours of electricity every year. That's worth about € 80 – an easy way to recoup your annual Öko-Institut membership fee! And you're doing something positive for the environment at the same time!

Membership

Please tick the appropriate box
